We like to be just as honest and fair in our ads as if we were talking to you.

But no matter how carefully you test the matter, we don't believe you will find a better conducted, all-round drug store than this.

This applies to the goods we sell you, and to the service we render. That's our claim. To prove it is our aim.

As Mrs. Thomas Rapley was turning on the electric light in her kitchen the other evening in some manner a shock was transmitted to her and she fell to the floor nearly unconscious. She struck her forehead on the floor, cutting quite a gash above her eye and bruised herself in other ways. As Mrs. Rapley is getting well on in years, these injuries are hard on her. It is hoped she will soon recover.

Nine wedding couples were on the east bound train Wednesday evening when it passed here. The Expositor never likes to be compelled to call the attention of the village authorities to the riotous conduct to strangers by citizens of Yale but the ungentlemanly way in which a lot of hoodlums carried on Wednesday night at the depot should be brought before our council and that body be requested to make an example of one or two, then such shameful work would be stopped. It is bad enough the way some carry on at the depot when a wedding couple leaves Yale, but the line should be drawn with strangers.

"BLUE RIBBON MEETING."

Unless all signs fail, the twenty-second annual "Blue Ribbon" meeting at Detroit will excel any ever held.

Never since the inception of the two classics—the M. and M. $10,000 trotting, and C. of C. $5,000 pacing—has the class of horses entered been so evenly matched in speed. The trotting event will have no less than a dozen starters comprising the best horses in training. Shrewd judges refuse to venture an opinion as to the probable winner. The turf papers in commenting on the classics are of one opinion, the most open races of any year since their introduction. Especially is this true of the M. and M. In other years one or two horses appeared to overshadow the balance of the field—last year for instance, when the Detroit horse Stanley Dillon was conceded the winner before the start—but not so this year. Of the eighteen still eligible to start, not a single one has enough on the other to be made a favorite.

The greatest contest ever witnessed will undoubtedly be the result of this year's M. and M. Every heat will find the entire field battling for first money. The laying up of heats is now history, and sharp, fast and spirited contests will surely be the rule.

The Blue Ribbon meet this year July 24-28 will certainly excel all its predecessors.
